DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-23, drawn to non-naturally occurring nucleic acid molecules that encode wild-type p53, classified in class 536, subclass 23.1.
  - II. Claims 24-51, drawn to a non-naturally occurring nucleic acid molecule that comprises a p53 mutation, classified in class 536, subclass 23.1.

Further restriction is required.

If group I is elected, a further restriction is required among each of the unique coding sequences recited in the claims. Applicant should select a single SEQ ID NO from each of those sets recited in claim 1, particularly selecting one of SEQ ID NO: 54-57 and the corresponding sequence from SEQ ID NO: 58-61. Furthermore, applicant should select a single corresponding molecule from those recited in claims 21-23.

If group II is elected, a further restriction to a single mutated site is required, specifically selecting from the mutations recited in claims 44 and 51. If a mutation in claim 44 is selected, applicant should further identify a single corresponding SEQ ID NO from claim 45 (that is, identify a SEQ ID NO that encodes the mutation selected from claim 44).

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Each of the groups, those listed as I and II above, and those within the further restriction requirement which are too numerous to reasonably list in numbered groups, are limited to distinct nucleic acid molecules that encode polypeptides having unique sequences or effects. The nucleic acids of group I encode wild type p53, while those of group II encode mutated p53. Each of the individual nucleic acid sequences distinguished in the further restriction requirement are unique in their nucleic acid composition. Even if they encode identical polypeptides the variations within the different sequences have unique diagnostic and functional characters with regard to their relationship to cancer making and causation. A reference against one would not anticipate another, and thus, a separate search is required to examine the many, many distinct molecules recited in the claims. Such a search would pose an undue burden on the PTO search resources and on the examiner.

2. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as demonstrated by their different classification and recognized divergent subject matter and because each of the disclosed inventions require different searches that are not coextensive, examination of these claims would pose a serious burden on the examiner and therefore restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

3. A telephone call was made to Michelle Holmes-Son on July 1, 2004 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

4. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
